Husker-LSU Rematch New Twist

By DON BRYANT

Sports Information Director

Nebraska and Louisiana State meet for only the second time, but today's match shapes up as every bit as important and exciting as the first.

It was New Year's night of 1971 and the setting was the Orange Bowl. Tension had mounted all day as the unbeaten (but tied by USC, 21-21) Huskers followed the other bowl games—top ranked Texas fell to Notre Dame, 24-11, in the Cotton Bowl, then No. 2 Ohio State was stunned, 27-17, by Stanford in the Rose Bowl.

So it came down to the Orange Bowl and No. 3 Nebraska had a chance for its first national title. Charlie McClendon's Bayou Tigers had other ideas, however, and fought back from a 10-0 deficit to take a 12-10 lead as the fourth quarter opened.

Then came a dramatic 67-yard TD march by the Cornhuskers with Quarterback Jerry Tagge lunging over from the one with 6:10 left in the game to give Nebraska a 17-12 victory.

Two days later the Cornhuskers were declared the No. 1 team in the nation and a few weeks later President Richard Nixon visited Lincoln to salute Coach Bob Devaney and the Cornhuskers.

NEXT WEEK'S PROGRAM HAS NEW, NATIONAL LOOK

Next Saturday and all other home games for the Nebraska Cornhuskers in 1975 will have special meaning to Husker program buyers.

Starting with the Indiana program, the Husker official game magazine will include special national features and beautiful four-color photographs.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department is striving to bring NU fans the best possible program to accompany the best possible football game. By the way, proceeds from program sales go to the Husker athletic scholarship fund and many of the sellers are non-scholarship NU athletes earning money for their educations.

So when you buy an Official Husker Game Magazine you are not only getting a fine editorial product, you are helping boost the NU athletic program.

Oh yes, even though there will be a new program, the price will remain just $1—lots more magazine for no more cost. So watch for the Indiana game program and make sure you get a program each week.

BOB DEVANEY
Athletic Director

While the last LSU meeting wound up a great season, the 1975 meeting will open what both schools hope will be outstanding campaigns.

Nebraska's Huskers will be shooting for a bowl bid and a seventh straight post-season win to set a national record, in addition to the Big 8 title and high national ranking. LSU, like the Huskers in the Big 8, is a perennial Southeastern Conference threat and respected nationally for its outstanding football and athletic program.

It's always exciting when the college football season opens and 1975 is no exception. Make no mistake, the Nebraska-LSU opener shapes up as one of the finest first-game matchups in the nation.

All Nebraskans join in saluting Coach Tom Osborne and his 1975 Huskers and welcoming Charlie McClendon and his LSU Tigers to Memorial Stadium.

It's Football time again—and in Nebraska (and Louisiana, by the way) that spells fun and excitement.

Foundation Awards $250,000 in UNL Projects

More than $250,000 in unrestricted gifts to the University of Nebraska Foundation were allocated to the Lincoln Campuses during the past year aimed at improving excellence of the University.

Awarding the monies was the Awards and Grants Committee of the University Foundation. The Committee is composed of nine members of the Foundation's Board of Trustees. Chairman is William Smith, Lincoln banker.

The Committee allocated funds to the following projects:

—$75,000 as partial subsidy for the purchase of a Gas Chromatograph-Mass Spectrometer by the Department of Chemistry. Costing $360,535, the instrument permits analysis of naturally occurring mixtures consisting of up to 30 complete chemical compounds within approximately half an hour.

—$15,000 in discretionary funds for educational programs or projects, as directed by Chancellor Zumberge.

Spectrometer purchased by Foundation Grant.

—$20,000 as a one-year supplement to the Woods Faculty Fellowship Program.

—$10,000 for support of an original music drama in 1976 to highlight the Bicentennial year's musical calendar of the School of Music. The basis for the drama is a story by Willa Cather, "Eric Hermannson's Soul."

—$15,000 as a grant for a partial support of Chautauqua Project.

—$4,500 to permit the University Symphony Orchestra to give a special performance at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

—$3,000 to support the Montgomery Lectures, which this year will involve a series of critics who will lecture on the works of Wright Morris, noted Nebraska-born author.

—$2,000 as partial support of the Inaugural Symposium conducted by the School of Life Sciences.

—$7,000 for a Mexican Festival in October, 1975, in joint sponsorship with the government of Mexico.

—$10,000 for a pilot program in retraining faculty members in areas of declining enrollment.

Besides Chairman Smith, members of the Awards and Grants Committee are: S. L. Cate, Dr. Jack Coe and Charles Durham, all of Omaha; Mrs. David Dow, A. Leicester Hyde, and Dr. Bernard Moran, all of Lincoln; Mrs. Richard Folda, Schuyler; and Forrest Lee, Brownlee.

Cornhusker Marching Band Sports New Look

By ROBERT MUSSMAN,
Assistant Director,
University Information

The Cornhusker Marching Band that appears on the Memorial Stadium AstroTurf today has a new solo twirler, two new drum majors, about 28 more players, a 16-girl flag corps, and most importantly, a new director.

Dr. Robert Fought has been selected by NU Director of Bands Jack Snider to direct the marching Cornhuskers. Snider was the popular and highly successful director of the marching band from 1952 through last season.

Dr. Fought became a member of the School of Music faculty and served as assistant to Snider last year. He came to NU from Syracuse (NY) University where he was director of bands and chairman of the wind department. He had previously been director of bands at Adams (Colo.) State College and at Evanston (Ill.) Township High School.

With the new director comes a new look for the Saturday afternoon band programs. "The pre-game show is entirely different and the halftime shows feature geometric designs with the bandsmen moving while they play, rather than forming pictures," Fought says.

"To get ready for the season and to make all the changes we wanted to incorporate, we asked the members of the band to come to campus a week early. They arrived in high spirits on Aug. 10, and we immediately began a four-a-day rehearsal schedule. We cut this to three-a-day after a few days and then went on our regular daily 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. schedule when classes started."

The new director reported that the band has been enlarged from 180 to 208 members, most of the additional pieces in the brass section. "We heard 271 auditions, invited 235 to the band camp and then cut down to 208. About 80 members of the band are new and only about one-fourth of them are music majors," Fought said.

The biggest challenge is getting ready for five shows in a row, since the Cornhuskers play their first five games at home. This was a major reason for the early camp where marching and playing fundamentals were stressed, Fought noted.

A major addition to the band's "look" is a 16-girl Flag Corps.

Decoys On Exhibit at Sheldon

The Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Campus, in cooperation with the Nebraska Art Association and the Central Flyway Decoy Carvers and Collectors Club, has organized an exhibition of bird decoys which will be on view from September 9 through October 5, 1975.

This is the second fall exhibition of American folk art; the first, "Quilts from Nebraska Collections," was organized last year with the assistance of the Lincoln Quilters Guild. It proved so popular that the decision was made to continue the series as an annual fall event.

Decoys, like quilts, are largely an American invention.

Devised by the Indians, they have grown as a useful art since colonial times. All kinds of birds have been decoyed, because in the early days all kinds of birds were hunted for food or feathers.

Out of this practical application grew the carvers art, and the results are as varied as the different birds and the men who carved them. There are regional styles and there are individual styles—some naturalistic, others abstract. Some decoys could pass as porcelain; others have the quality of a piece of sculpture by Brancusi. It is from the aspect of an authentic artistic expression that this exhibition of decoys is currently being presented.

A 20th Century wooden shore bird decoy is just one of many decoys currently on display at Sheldon Art Gallery.

THE TOUCHDOWN CLUB OF NEBRASKA

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of inter-collegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

CORNHUSKERS WIN.
AND JUST IN CASE
THEY DON'T.

Whether you're celebrating a touchdown, or eating your heart out over an intercepted pass, do it with one of the 12 different cocktails from THE CLUB.[®]
After all, sitting on the 50-yard line isn't the only way you can enjoy all the excitement of the game.

THE CLUB. A GREAT DRINK ANYWHERE.

YOU KNOW

Even if you're not sure what a credit union is,
we want you to know what it isn't."

Some people tell us our name's confusing. They get us mixed up with credit bureaus and labor unions.

A credit bureau we're not.

Credit bureaus keep track of how you pay your bills. They report on your credit rating.

And we aren't a labor union.

Labor unions work with management on wages, working conditions and fringe benefits.

What we are is a credit union.

A credit union is a financial organization. Formed by people with a "common bond." They may work for the same company, live in the same community, or belong to the same group. They save money together on a regular basis, then loan that money to each other at favorable interest rates.

A credit union is owned by its members and run by its members. It's not in business to make a profit, but to help people. Take it from a member. It's worth looking into.

For more information about credit unions contact the Nebraska Credit Union League 4315 Frances St. Omaha, Nebr. 68105 or call (toll free) 1-800 642 8402

The new veterinary science diagnostic laboratory, one of four buildings that will replace facilities dating back to 1909.

Vet Science Department to Have New Facilities

By GRANT I. JOHNSON,
Asst. Extension Editor,
Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources

Some time this fall the University's Veterinary Science Department will move out of a 66-year-old diagnostic laboratory into a new building specially designed for the purpose.

Hopefully, by the end of 1976 they will be moved into research and office facilities that will replace buildings first occupied in 1920—55 years ago.

Farm organizations are likely to be as individualistic as their members, but when it became obvious that Nebraska's veterinary scientists were being handicapped in their efforts to help animal industry in the state because of their outmoded facilities, 33 farm organizations banded together to help get the modern buildings and laboratories funded.

An obvious reason for the united front of the farm organizations is the record the veterinary scientists have compiled since Dr. Frank S. Billings started research on hog cholera in the late 1800s.

Dr. T. A. Peters took up the work toward the eradication of hog cholera in 1894, but also was kept busy that year with 1,841 personal examinations of different animals and 164 post mortems.

More recently, Dr. Oliver Grace has been working just as hard as a diagnostician in the 66-year-old original veterinary science building. He has been getting help from scientists in a laboratory at the North Platte Station, and this year, a new laboratory at the Panhandle Station.

The veterinary scientists have had some outstanding success in recent years with their research in the old facility, designed to look like an old-time European farmyard by Dr. L. Van Es, a native of Holland.

Some of the research that has contributed significantly to Nebraska's important animal industry includes:

—Development of the technique for producing specific pathogen free (SPF) swine, under the leadership of the late Dr. George Young. This has resulted in a national SPF swine movement in which Nebraska is still a leader. SPF swine are taken by hysterectomy from the sow and raised under sterile conditions which leave them free of a variety of common swine diseases.

—Discovery of two viruses that cause neonatal diarrhea (scours) in newborn calves. The team of scientists, under the leadership of Dr. Charles A. Mebus, has developed a commercially produced vaccine against a reo-like virus and an experimental vaccine that prevents scours from a combination of the reo-like virus and a corona-virus.

The work has attracted worldwide attention from physicians, who have since discovered that a reo-like virus also causes infant diarrhea, one of the leading causes of infant deaths in the world. Doctors from Australia, England and elsewhere have been consulting with the Nebraska scientists on how to produce a vaccine.

—Development of a quick method for diagnosing hog cholera. Known as the fluorescent antibody test, the method has been used nation-wide in the effort to eradicate hog cholera. Except for a recent outbreak in Texas, the United States is, in effect, free of hog cholera.

Dr. Marvin Twiehaus, present chairman of the Veterinary Science Department, was very active in organizing the Nebraska movement to forego vaccines in favor of cleaning out herds that had hog cholera. Nebraska is now free of hog cholera.

The stage was set . . . in a 80 x 160-ft. tent . . . for a revival of oldtime Chautauqua.

NU Revives Traveling Tent Chautauqua

The year was 1874; the site, Chautauqua, N.Y., and the occasion, the dedication of a summer camp for Sunday school teachers.

From these humble beginnings arose a massive traveling Chautauqua movement which brought religious, educational and cultural entertainment to rural America from 1880 to 1920. Nebraska became an early leader in this national movement, and for a time Crete, Neb. boasted the largest Chautauqua assembly in the country.

Now, in the year between Chautauqua's 100th anniversary and the nation's 200th anniversary, Nebraska has become a leader in the Chautauqua Revival Movement. From May 30 to June 10, 1975, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and six Nebraska communities sponsored a series of two-day Chautauquas featuring nationally known speakers, University educators and artists and local celebrities. A traveling company—84 people, 11 vehicles and two 80 x 160 feet tents—combined with talent in Chadron, Scottsbluff, McCook, Hastings, Norfolk and Nebraska City to revive the spirit of earlier Chautauquas.

Funding for the program came from a variety of sources including the communities, the Nebraska Committee for the Humanities, the Nebraska Bicentennial Commission, the Nebraska Arts Council and the University of Nebraska Foundation.

A SONG AND A DANCE

Throughout the state, Chautauqua audiences were treated to performances by the NU School of Music's Woodwind Quintet, the University Dance Ensemble, the NU Alumni Association's Scarlet & Cream Singers and the Bluegrass Crusade. "Portraits," a premiere musical written especially for Chautauqua '75 by David Bell and Alan Nielsen, was produced by the University Repertory Company. And Lt. Governor Gerald Whelan and State Sen. John Cavanaugh re-enacted "The Great Seal Robbery," a controversy which raged from 1865-67 between Nebraska Territorial Governor Thomas Cuming and J. Sterling Morton and resulted in the movement of the state capital from Omaha City to south of the Platte River.

Each community spiced the Chautauqua experience with a little of its own talent, too—singers, dancers, musicians, artists, actors and speakers.

CARAVAN OF DIGNITARIES

Adding a special flavor to the Chautauqua programs were a number of nationally-known personalities. They entertained, gave speeches, held press conferences and took part in panel discussions and debates on crucial current issues.

Chadronites were entertained by Will Rogers, Jr., American Indian expert and actor-son of the famous American humorist. Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark also made an appearance, speaking on "U.S.

Moral Commitment in Southeast Asia."

Gen. William Westmoreland addressed crowds in Scottsbluff and McCook and CBS News anchorman Douglas Edwards visited McCook and Hastings. Hastings residents also heard an address by Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona.

Old-time Chautauquan Will Geer ("Grandpa Walton"), whose acting career began nearly 50 years ago in tent shows, and his actress daughter Ellen visited Norfolk as did U.S. Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, Presidential hopeful and Duke University president Terry Sanford and CBS News correspondent Charles Kuralt. Sanford and Kuralt also appeared in Nebraska City.

In addition, Nebraska politicians, theologians, ministers and educators were among the guests in each community, where they served as panel members, moderators and platform managers.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA

Nebraska's traveling tent Chautauqua was actually two shows in one. While the adults were entertained by musicians, dancers and politicians in the big tent, children and teenagers enjoyed another version of Chautauqua designed especially for them and staged in a 30 x 30 feet tent.

For the little ones, there were story ladies, arts and crafts activities, games and skits by the University's Commedia Dell'Arte Theatre. Meanwhile, teenagers in the six Chautauqua communities were given the opportunity to work and rap with the traveling singers, dancers, musicians, actors and statesmen.

The University Dance Ensemble took a few minutes to practice outside the Junior Chautauqua tent in Hastings.

McCook children were entertained by Purple Panda (from "Mister Roger's Neighborhood").

Will "Grandpa Walton" Geer, his actress daughter Ellen and guitarist Pete Alsop appeared "in concert" at Norfolk.

"We decided to add this group to enhance the visual effect of the band. About 50 girls tried out in April, from which 16 regulars and four alternates were selected. The girls are outfitted in red costumes and white boots and carry red and white flags." Graduate student Quentin Bennett studied flag corps technique at Kansas University this summer and is directing the group's performances.

Also new on the field this year is Charla Jean Willson, solo twirler. A freshman from Crescent, Okla., Miss Willson will fill the role performed for six years by Diane Tangeman, a star of national and international twirling competition.

An additional precedent has been set with the appearance of Diane Miller, a junior from Lexington, as one of the three drum majors with the band. She is the first woman selected for this position.

Along with Ken Tiekotter and Don Thursby, she will lead the band in its field performance. "Diane was selected during auditions this spring and has proved to be exceptionally good," Fought said.

"It's going to be an exciting season. We've got a heavy schedule but we're working hard, and the kids are just great. I'm sure Cornhusker football fans will be just as excited and pleased with the performance of the band as I've been."

Charla Willson Is New Twirler

By CHUCK BECK,
Student Assistant
University Information

An incoming freshman from Oklahoma, Charla Jean Willson, is the new solo baton twirler for the Cornhusker Marching Band. She replaces Diane Tangeman who appeared with the band for six years.

The new baton twirler, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Willson of Crescent, Okla., will study broadcasting.

Miss Willson, who has been performing for 14 years, said she received an offer for a twirling scholarship from the University of Texas at Arlington. She added that she also received an academic scholarship from Oklahoma State University, but decided on NU despite the fact she was offered no aid here.

"I wanted to go to a large university and be a featured twirler," she said.

The twirling veteran said she likes to perform because it gives her an opportunity to travel and meet people.

While Miss Willson will perform for NU, she said she also has plans to utilize her talent after college.

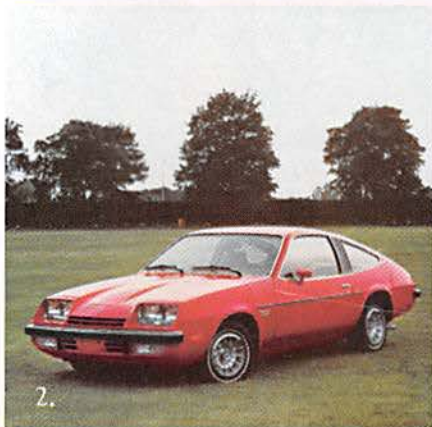

"I want to first find a job in broadcasting and then be a part-time twirling judge and teacher," she explained.

MONTEZUMA'S OFFICIAL GUIDE TO THE ANCIENT TEQUILA ARTS.

The Aztec Empire. It's long gone. However, modern man is rediscovering its secrets.

A key to the rediscovery is the Sun Stone, a sort of time-capsule that outlines the history of the Aztecs and, according to Montezuma® Tequila, what the Aztecs liked to drink and when they liked to drink it.

Within the inner ring of the Sun Stone are twenty symbols; one for each day of the Aztec week. Each symbol also suggests what kind of drink might be appropriate to serve on that day.

XOCHITL

Montezuma Margarita

The flower symbolizes the last day of the Aztec week, representing the ultimate in true beauty and pleasure. The drink: 2 oz. Montezuma Tequila; ½ oz. Triple Sec; juice ½ lime; pinch of salt; stir in shaker over ice; rub rim of cocktail glass with lime peel and spin in salt; strain shaker into cocktail glass.

Tequila-Pineapple Liqueur. The 3rd day of the Aztec week is symbolized by a house, representing hospitality and at-home entertaining. The drink: fill a jar half way with chunks of ripe pineapple; pour Montezuma Tequila to the brim; add 1 teaspoon sugar (optional); cap jar and place in refrigerator for 24 hours; drain off liquid and serve as an after-dinner liqueur.

Horny Bull™ Cocktail. A horned animal symbolizes the 7th day of the Aztec week, representing high-spirited and casual fun. The drink: 1 oz. Montezuma Tequila over ice in unusual glassware, mason jar, jelly jar, beer mug etc.; fill with fresh orange juice or orange breakfast drink.

MAZATL

Tequila Fizz. The rain symbolizes the 19th day of the Aztec week, representing cool refreshment. The drink: 2 oz. Montezuma Tequila; juice ½ lime; ½ teaspoon sugar; two dashes orange biters; stir in a tall glass over ice; fill with club soda; garnish with lime shell.

Tequila Straight. Water symbolizes the 9th day of the Aztec week, representing simple and uncomplicated pleasure. The drink: Pour 1½ oz. of Montezuma Gold Tequila in shot glass. Put salt on back of thumb; hold a wedge of lime between thumb and 1st finger; lick salt, drink Tequila, bite into lime in one flowing motion.

Montezuma Tequila. In White. In Gold. Made in the tradition of the finest ancient tequilas. For additional Tequila Arts recipes, write: Montezuma Tequila Arts, Barton Brands, 200 South Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois 60604. And may Tonatiuh* smile upon you.

College Football's Trivia Trove

by ROD BELCHER

There can't be much argument with the premise that football has produced a bountiful cornucopia for trivialists. Oh sure, there may be some grounds for tabbing baseball as the premier source of sports trivia; and of course movies, music, comics, radio and television rank high with trivia-nostalgia buffs.

But football is a staple item, make no mistake. It's a sport that produces memorable intricacies, unlikely heroics, noteworthy perimeter tangencies, and (perhaps most important) names that fasten to the memory process.

Who can ignore the ring of such names as Bronko Nagurski, Marchmont Schwartz, Viscount Francis, Aramis Dandoy, Pudge Heffelfinger, Buckets Goldenberg, Mad Dog O'Billovich, Atherton Phleger, Beattie Feathers, Father Lumpkin, Clayton Tonnemaker, Swinton Aldrich, Endicott Peabody and (he should have been a quarterback instead of a guard) Wylie Fox?

What imagery in Crazylegs, Hopalong, Too Tall, Choo-Choo, Squirmin' Herman, Anvil Andy, Antelope Al, Slingin' Sam and Mad Stork!

Hirsch

Bryant

So now it's on to a football trivia quiz that's heavy on names. And there will be no apologies offered over occasional reference to players and coaches who date back as far as the 1920's. After all, that was the famed "Golden Era of Sport."

1. Super-colorful nicknames among college coaches seem to be out of favor these days, although Alabama's Bear Bryant is a notable exception. That wasn't the case for some earlier day coaches, however. Who were: (a) Snorter (b) Peahead (c) Hunk (d) Potsy (e) Greasy (f) Ears?

2. As for colorful nicknames of college athletic teams, how many of the following can you match up?:

- | | |

| (f) Jumbos | (6) Livingstone |
| (g) Thundering Herd | (7) Thiel |
| (h) Green Terrors | (8) Marshall |

3. At least ten actors, including the likes of Robert Taylor, Paul Newman and Roy Rogers, have played the role of Billy the Kid in variously-titled films about the outlaw. What ex-college football star was one of the earliest of the Billys, in the 1930 movie version?

4. In the context of college football, here's the dateline: Durham, N. C., January 1, 1942. What's the event?

5. Pop Warner gained fame coaching football at such places as Cornell, Carlisle, Pittsburgh and Stanford. He left Stanford after the 1932 season. Where did he coach starting in 1933?

6. Name the only two athletes who have had the distinction of playing in both a Rose Bowl football game and a baseball World Series.

7. Who's the only man to have coached a Rose Bowl team and played in a World Series?

8. Leroy Zimmerman was a fine back for San Jose State and for several pro teams. But he played another sport for 34 years and is listed in that sport's hall of fame. Which sport?

9. A member of the college and pro football halls of fame served up two home run pitches to Babe Ruth in 1927 when the Bambino hit 60 round-trippers. Who was he?

10. Who was the Washington State University lineman who fought for the world heavyweight boxing title in his first pro bout?

11. What college players were known as: (a) Little Boy Blue (b) The Wheaton Iceman (c) The Noblest Trojan of them All (d) The Beast (e) Flatfoot Frankie, the Georgia Fireball (f) The Baby-Faced Assassin?

14. Aside from the fact that all were well known college players, what did these men have in common?: Norman Strader of St. Mary's, Howard Hickey of Arkansas, James Phillips of Auburn, Elmer Sleight of Purdue and Christian Cagle of Army.

15. Ten T-formation quarterbacks have won the Heisman Trophy. Who was the only lefthander among them?

A Fighting Methodist by Any Other Name?

by LARRY GUEST, Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel Star

The very heavy thinkers in the University of Southern Mississippi Alumni Association gathered over doughnuts one day back in the early '60s and decided the nickname for the school's athletic teams was outdated.

The seed was planted in the minds of a few student leaders and before long, it was duly decreed that Southern's practitioners of sport would be known as Generals; no longer as Southerners. Perhaps the latter tag seemed somewhat incongruous when applied to the school's outstanding basketball team of that era. For when the pep band completed the National Anthem and broke into a spirited rendition of Dixie, the five starting Southerners who took the floor would have been hard-pressed to distinguish between hominy grits and collards. They hailed from the Bronx, Brooklyn, New Jersey, Illinois and Indiana.

However, as has been the case with so many other nickname changes, the new monicker didn't stick. In less than a year, Generals no longer appeared in official references to the squads, marking a decisive victory for those supporters who continued to cheer the Southerners ingrained in their loyalties.

Subsequently, as confirmation of the Civil War outcome seeped down from Appomattox, the heavy thinkers renewed their effort to rid USM of its provincialistic nickname. And just a decade after the first misfire, Golden Eagles was successfully adopted via a nickname contest.

Nickname changes—or aborted attempts—are liberally sprinkled throughout the history of collegiate athletics. A fight song provided Tulane with the Green Wave, replacing Greenbacks, a handle that might have red-faced the school's athletic business manager during the attendance slump of the mid-sixties when the average number of paying customers at Tulane home games dipped to a budget-pinching 14,000.

Many, many seasons have come and gone since Cornhuskers replaced Bugeaters at Nebraska—for reasons which should be painfully apparent. Although the many recent victims of Alabama football teams may find it hard to believe, the Crimson Tide was once the Thin Red Line.

And, while in the crimson area, a student attempt to change Indiana's Hoosiers to the Crimson Bulls fortunately never got off the ground. Same for an aborted try to have the Purdue Boilermakers become the Riveters. Riveters?

Oh, well. That wouldn't have been much more unusual than the current St. Louis University Billikins. Don't feel culturally deprived if your neighborhood zoo fails to contain a herd of billikins. It's actually a Chinese God who was supposed to bring good luck. The mascot is a god much like Hoy-Tay—squat, fat little guy with a big belly—giving your humble reporter hope for new employment if I ever leave the newspaper business.

Another newspaperman, Wallace Abbey, is generally credited with applying the Wildcat tag to Northwestern much to the relief of peace-loving clergymen. The school's football team had previously molested opponents under guise of being Fighting Methodists.

Ask a grad of Western Carolina or Vermont what a Catamount is and watch him stutter. They've cheered for Catamounts since their freshman year probably unaware that it's actually a general name given to any of various wild cats, and short for cat-a-mountain.

Many schools took the easy route by merely embracing their state's accepted mascot or nickname, i.e., Tennessee Vols, Illinois Illini, Indiana Hoosiers, Minnesota Gophers, etc.

No bickering between alumni and students. No nickname contests. Think of the fun they missed.

Others were more original . . . California Irvine Anteaters, Colby College White Mules, and the Tufts Jumbos to name a few.

Archie, from Freshman to Heisman

by KAYE KESSLER, Citizen-Journal, Columbus, Ohio

A dozen little tads ages about 10—black, white and in between with taped-together sneakers—stood behind the central casting figure looking into the cameras as television crews ground out picture after picture during Ohio State University's preseason football practice.

All of the mini-stars had some form of patched football under their arms and a tattered T-shirt or jersey with No. 45 on their backs. While the cameras whirled away focused on their idol, that central casting figure, the diminutive hero-worshippers mimicked every fake, cut, stiff-arm and head move of Archie Griffin.

They all were ready, willing and unable to handle the immortality for which Archie Mason Griffin, senior Ohio State tailback, seems so perfectly fitted, if unwilling to accept.

These doting little devils with nothing but Archie in their eyes also happen to represent the only real pressure Griffin feels as he enters his fourth and final varsity year with the Buckeyes carrying the great expectations of the entire collegiate football world on his bullish little shoulders.

The youngsters are the motivating force that could make Griffin exceed himself, if that's possible.

No Pressure

Quite simply and honestly, this 5-9, 185-pound dynamo who has destroyed a gaggle of record books does not feel the pressure of the possibility of:

- Being the first repeat Heisman Trophy winner in its 40 years;
- Becoming the first three-time winner of the Big Ten's MVP award;
- Becoming only the third three-time all-America in OSU history.

This Amateur Athlete of the Year for 1974 who will co-captain the Buckeyes this fall for the second time also:

- Has an NCAA record 21 straight games rushing for 100 or more yards (the NCAA does not count bowl appearances, thus thrown out is Archie's 75 yards before injury shelved him in last January's 18-17 Rose Bowl loss to Southern California).

- Holds the OSU single-game rushing record (246 yards in 30 carries against Iowa as a sophomore), single season (1,695 yards in 256 carries for 12 games last year) and OSU career rushing record (4,139 yards in three seasons);
- Holds Big Ten all-game career rushing record of 4,139 yards, and career conference games record of 2,808.

All this is not as insufferable to Archie Griffin, as overwhelming, as it might appear after he survived a summer of incessant hounding by newspaper, magazine and television writers.

Emphatically does Archie deny the outside pressures of his coaches, his peers, his followers.

Self-Motivation

But let the bandy-legged ground-gaining genius tell it like he feels it:

"If there is any pressure at all on me, it's put there by Archie Griffin and nobody else," he began sincerely.

"Sure, the Heisman Trophy was a wonderful award and I'd like to win it again, but I don't think about it. I never think about professional ball, though I hope to play, because I know it messed up the minds and play of some of our fellows last year.

"Being one of the first fellows ever to play in four straight Rose Bowls is something, too, but it's not the end, it's the means to an end.

"This might sound strange, and I'm sure people will be skeptical, but all I'm thinking about is winning the national championship as a team. You know, we've never won that yet in my three years.

"I feel pressures, you bet; and those pressures come from only the kids. I love kids . . . I really do."

And the warm, affectionate grin, that is as much of Archie Griffin as his incredible cuts or fierce shoulder shrugs that shed linebackers, bursts through when he talks of kids.

"You know why I feel pressure from the kids?" he asks. "Because I know some of them, anyway, are watching me; watching everything I do. They'll say, 'I did this because Archie did it.' And if I do something a little bit wrong and a kid does, too, I couldn't live with myself. I'd like to set a good example for kids because I guess I like nothing better than to be around them."

Archie went to summer school "so I can graduate in industrial relations winter quarter." He once wanted to be a social worker, but now he's thinking about law school after pro football.

The phone never quits in the mod apartment Archie shares with quarterback Cornelius Greene and pro-bound defensive halfback Steve Luke; but it really doesn't bug Archie and neither do the countless speeches he makes to church-oriented groups or for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) which is as much a part of his life as running with a football, studying or his full-time girl friend of two years, Loretta.

"Leg Work"

How did Archie Griffin prepare himself for his final season and the pressure of setting the example for the youngsters with whom he's formed a mutual admiration society?

"My only concern was to get into the best possible shape for this fall," he replied quickly. "I wrestled a lot when I was in high school and developed pretty good shoulders (ask any would-be tackler), but I've really got skinny little legs. I want to build them up."

So Archie runs a lot with Greene and his kid brothers, sophomore Raymond who was too valuable to play tailback in Archie's shadow and will start at defensive safety and freshman Duncan, a defensive cornerback candidate. He also works faithfully with the Nautalis weight machine and rides the bicycle he uses to go to classes.

Did he have a secret for getting into shape quickly for the fall?

"Not really, it's just that I guess I've never been out of shape. I think that's important—just never get out of shape."

And OSU's man for all reasons and seasons has one other principle, "Never let the kids down."

Pressure on Archie Griffin? Phooey. But he'll heap a ton of it on other people just being Archie Griffin!

THE NEBRASKA GRAIN-ALCOHOL PROGRAM

"Food and Fuel for the Future"

Gasahol is a motor fuel consisting of a blend of 10% Agriculturally derived ethyl alcohol and 90% unleaded gasoline. Gasahol provides higher octane than regular and unleaded gasolines. EPA approved for 1975 cars.

Nebraska has been the first state in the nation to:

- 1) Conduct a Two Million Mile Road Test using an alternative motor fuel—GASOHOL.
- 2) Conduct a Consumer Acceptance Test & Marketing Survey using an alternative fuel and selling it (GASOHOL) to the public.

LSU—University With a Future

As the largest university in the state, Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge exerts a major educational, cultural, and economic impact that is felt by all of Louisiana's citizens.

With a student body of more than 23,000 and a faculty of some 1,200, LSU has the intellectual and physical resources to offer a number and variety of courses of study, with extensive flexibility in curricula selection: Curricula leading to bachelors degrees are available in 134 major fields; masters degrees are offered in 81 major fields, and doctors degrees in 49 major fields. Five post-baccalaureate professional degrees are offered through the University's professional schools.

In addition to its function of resident instruction, the University is also dedicated to continuing and extension education, and to research.

Essentially every academic unit of the University is engaged in research—from agricultural engineers who are improving techniques for farming, to astronomers who are investigating outer space, to historians who are illuminating knowledge of past and present. The LSU Computer Research Center has greatly boosted the University's research capabilities, and the Nuclear Science Center has enhanced them. Many research activities are supported by outside agencies and institutions, and much of the University's work has been of direct benefit to government organizations and business and industry. LSU has, for instance, been a tremendous boon to the state's farmers over the years, developing new strains of crops, improving fertilizers and pest controls, devising machinery and methods—to an extent that has reaped many, many additional millions of dollars in agricultural revenues. LSU has produced significant contributions toward detecting—and thus controlling—air and water pollution, with worldwide implications. Another research project with international promise provides for the conversion of waste cellulose into edible synthetic single-cell protein, which could be of significant importance in coping with world-wide hunger. LSU research into problems and conditions of wetlands—a significant resource of the future—has been so extensive and so successful that the University has high hopes of being designated a "sea-grant university," in addition to the land-grant status it has held since 1877.

At any given time, there are over 1,300 active research projects under way on the campus—not only generating new knowledge, but also forming a necessary base for total education in a true university.

LSU is extremely active in the field of continuing education, and annually sponsors hundreds of short courses and conferences, extending into virtually every phase of professional, technical, and educational activity throughout Louisiana. The University is constantly training, or upgrading the training, of firemen, policemen, lawyers, judges, insurance agents, real-estate brokers, teachers and many others.

LSU holds membership in approximately 200 associations, societies, agencies, and organizations. The University's principal accrediting agency is the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

From LSU's founding in 1860 (and its first commencement in 1869) through May 1975, the University conferred 87,451 degrees on graduates from all over the world.

As LSU enters its 116th year, and the nation celebrates its bicentennial, the University can look back to a history marked by a path of steady progress. But LSU, which has been designated as a Bicentennial University, looks more frequently to the coming years in which enrollment is predicted to continue rising and new programs are constantly coming over the horizon, to the encouraging prospect of LSU—University with a Future.

Remember the House at 1520 R?

Remember it as the Phi Mu sorority? Or International House? As the Faculty Club? Or a fraternity annex?

Well now the house at 1520 R would like to be remembered as Alumni House . . . A place for NU alumni, students, faculty and friends to meet and exchange ideas. A place where alumni reunions, tours, clubs and workshops are born. A place to make the alum visiting campus feel "at home."

The house at 1520 R . . . Remember it as the new headquarters for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Alumni Association.

"SPORTSMANSHIP" NEBRASKA SPELLS

The University of Nebraska is known and respected all over the nation for its red-attired fans, as well as its football teams.

Nebraska fans also have a nation-wide reputation for good sportsmanship, at home and away.

"Big League"—that's the way Nebraska teams and fans have acquitted themselves in past seasons, and that's the same goal for 1975.

The University of Nebraska urges all 1975 fans to continue this fine tradition of sportsmanship by extending courtesy to the visiting teams and officials.

All of us on the Cornhusker Staff salute our fans as the greatest in the nation and thank you for your support and sportsmanship.

Yours for Nebraska,

Bob Devaney
